INTERNATIONAL SEARCH REPORT

International application No.

PCT/GB 99/00001

Box I Observations where certain claims were found unsearchable (Continuation of item 1 of first sheet)

This International Search Report has not been established in respect of certain claims under Article 17(2)(a) for the following reasons:

1. ☒ Claims Nos.: 27
because they relate to subject matter not required to be searched by this Authority, namely:

PCT Rule 6.2(a) - References to Other Parts of the International Application
2. ☐ Claims Nos.:
because they relate to parts of the International Application that do not comply with the prescribed requirements to such an extent that no meaningful International Search can be carried out, specifically:
3. ☐ Claims Nos.:
because they are dependent claims and are not drafted in accordance with the second and third sentences of Rule 6.4(a).

Box II Observations where unity of invention is lacking (Continuation of item 2 of first sheet)

This International Searching Authority found multiple inventions in this international application, as follows:

1. ☐ As all required additional search fees were timely paid by the applicant, this International Search Report covers all searchable claims.
2. ☐ As all searchable claims could be searched without effort justifying an additional fee, this Authority did not invite payment of any additional fee.
3. ☐ As only some of the required additional search fees were timely paid by the applicant, this International Search Report covers only those claims for which fees were paid, specifically claims Nos.:
4. ☐ No required additional search fees were timely paid by the applicant. Consequently, this International Search Report is restricted to the invention first mentioned in the claims; it is covered by claims Nos.:

Remark on Protest

- ☐ The additional search fees were accompanied by the applicant's protest.
- ☐ No protest accompanied the payment of additional search fees.

Reference is made to the following documents:

Re Item III

1. As the subject-matter of independent claim 27 is not characterised by a single specified technical feature, it is so unclear (Art. 6 PCT), that no opinion with regard to the requirements of Art. 33(1) PCT can be established.
Moreover, claim 27 is not admissible, since - contrary to Rule 6.2 a) PCT - it only consists of a general reference to the drawings, the claims and eventually to the description ("herein above").

Re Item V

2. Document D1, which is considered to represent the most relevant state of the art, discloses in accordance with independent claim 1 (see Fig. 1, column 2, lines 32-43):

an apparatus for use in playing in practising ball games comprising upper and lower guideways (10, 12), reciprocating means (14) connected to and freely movable along said upper and lower guideways (10, 12), and a ball (16) connected to said reciprocating means (14).

From this apparatus the subject-matter of claim 1 differs in that the reciprocating means is substantially inelastic.

Therefore, subject-matter of claim 1 has to be considered as new in the sense of Art. 33(2) PCT.

The technical effect achieved by the replacement of the elastic reciprocating means as known by a substantially inelastic means consists in avoiding uncontrolled lateral movement of the ball once struck by the player.

The problem to be solved by the present invention can, thus, be defined as providing an apparatus of the type as disclosed in D1 which is free from this disadvantage.

The solution proposed in claim 1 of the present application can be considered as involving an inventive step (Article 33(3) PCT) for the following reasons:

In all documents describing an apparatus of the type above-mentioned (D1, D2 and D3), the elasticity of the reciprocating means is presented as an essential feature.

Only document D4 shows a baseball practice device wherein the ball is connected to an inelastic member, i.e. a chain. Since there is, however, no lower guideway provided, to which the reciprocating means can be connected, it is evident for the man skilled in the art, that the ball swings even more in the lateral direction than in the apparatus known from D1.

Consequently, it is not obvious to refer to the disclosure of D4 in order to solve the problem posed, and even less to select a single feature of the device shown in D4 for combining it with the apparatus known from D1.

3. The subject-matter of dependent claims 2 to 19 containing additional features related to special embodiments of the invention according to claim 1 do also meet the requirements of Art. 33(1) with respect to the available prior art.
4. Since independent claim 20 represents several combinations of several of these dependent claims, and the following claims 21 to 26 correspond to others of these dependent claims (see below, Re item VIII), this applies also for claims 20 to 26.

Re item VII

5. Independent claims 1 and 20 are not in the two-part form in accordance with Rule 6.3(b) PCT, which in the present case would be appropriate, with those features known in combination from the prior art document D1 being placed in a preamble (Rule 6.3(b)(i) PCT) and with the remaining features being included in a characterizing part (Rule 6.3(b)(ii) PCT).

The features of the claims are not provided with reference signs placed in parentheses (Rule 6.2(b) PCT).

Re Item VIII

6. Contrary to the requirements of Art. 6 PCT, claims 20 to 26 lack clarity and conciseness.

Independent claim 20 is - due to the multitude of "or"-options - actually a conglomeration of six independent subject-matter. Moreover, claim 20 represents a combination of subject-matter of claims 2, 8 & 10 and 3 & 10, respectively. Dependent claims 21 to 26 correspond to dependent claims 4 to 6 and 11 to 14.

Accordingly, claims 20 to 26 only represent a superfluous repetition of subject-matter already claimed in claims 1 to 14, making it difficult to determine the matter for which protection is sought, and placing an undue burden on others seeking to establish the extent of the protection.

CLAIMS:

1. Apparatus for use in playing and practising ball games comprising upper and lower guideways, substantially inelastic reciprocating means connected to and freely moveable along said upper and lower guideways, and a ball connected to said reciprocating means.
2. Apparatus according to claim 1 wherein the upper guideway is inclined, the maximum height of the upper guideway above ground level being greater than the length of the reciprocating means.
3. Apparatus according to any one of the preceding claims wherein the upper and lower guideways lie in a plane which is generally normal to the ground.
4. Apparatus according to any one of the preceding claims wherein the upper and/or lower guideways are attached to a stable support.
5. Apparatus according to any one of the preceding claims wherein the lower guideway is adjustably engaged with the ground.
6. Apparatus according to any one of the preceding claims wherein the reciprocating means comprises one or more upstanding line(s) connected to the upper and lower guideways.
7. Apparatus according to claim 6 wherein the reciprocating means comprises one upstanding line connected to the upper guideway and another associated upstanding line connected to the lower guideway.
8. Apparatus according to any one of the preceding claims wherein the reciprocating means is connected to the upper and lower guideways means through a slide.

9. Apparatus according to any one of the preceding claims wherein the upper and/or lower guideways take the form of a plastics track which is capable of receiving a runner to which the reciprocating means is connected.
10. Apparatus according to any one of the preceding claims wherein the ball is a tennis ball, a baseball, a rounders ball, a cricket ball, a hockey ball, or a golf ball.
